STRIKERS RIOT AT LAWRENCE

BOMB EXPLOSION AND GENERAL SHOOTING IN MASSACHUSETTS CITY.

By the Associated Press
LAWRENCE, Mass., April 7.—Rioting marked by promiscuous shooting by strike sympathizers and police opened the tenth week of the textile strike here today a few hours after the city had been stirred by a bomb explosion in a tenement house in the same neighborhood. Early reports indicated that no one was injured by the shooting, although several rioters and police were injured by sticks, stones and clubs.

COMMUNISTS OVERTHROWN

REPORTED BOLSHEVIK GOVERNMENT IN HUNGARY DRIVEN FROM POWER.

By the Associated Press
VIENNA, April 7.—The communist government in Hungary, set up recently at Budapest, has been overthrown, according to rumors current in official circles, newspapers here say.
Bela Kun, the foreign minister under the new regime, is reported to have been assassinated. Details of the reported successful uprising are lacking and reports do not say whether the revolution in Budapest was organized by the socialists or the Bourgeois party.

GOOD PROGRESS IN CLEANUP CAMPAIGN

Good progress is being made in all parts of the city in the cleanup campaign, especially in the back alleys. It will close officially Friday and then if any are found who have not cleaned up voluntarily, the city will take a hand. The judges will make a round of inspection in a few days and check up all property and will make a round once a month until fall. The prizes offered by the Chamber of Commerce will be announced at the final close of the campaign. Alleys, gardens and yards will all come under the eyes of the judges.
The total number enrolled as members of the auxiliary is around 1,200, probably about that figure, all pledged to the work.

OMAHA SWEEPED BY SEVERE TORNADO

By the Associated Press
OMAHA, Neb., April 7.—A tornado struck the western section of Omaha last night, injuring a score of persons and destroying about thirty-five dwellings. As far as discovered, none was injured fatally.

Real Pioneer.
One of the first white men and in all probability the first British subject to make his abode in territory comprised within the boundaries of the province of New Brunswick, Canada, was John Gyles, who was carried from the southern British colonies to the wilderness of the valley of the St. John river by marauding bands of Indians.

Ink Stains on Furniture.
To remove ink stains from mahogany, rosewood or black walnut furniture, put half a dozen drops of spirits of niter in a spoonful of water and touch the stain with a feather wet with the mixture. As soon as the stain disappears, rub with a cloth dampened with cold water.

Brightening a Room.
The yellow gleam of brass always adds light to any dark nook and used with dark furniture, is most artistic. A pair of brass candlesticks on the mantel, andirons before an open fire, or even a brass jardiniere for ferns, are all especially attractive in a dark room.

Shakespeare Law Unto Himself.
A correspondent wonders how such a phrase as "piping time of peace" could originate. One might think it referred to the Indian's peace pipe, but Shakespeare was rather unfamiliar with the customs of American aborigines. However, Shakespeare did what he pleased with English language.

Lieut. Frank Smigelsky, a former member of the Normal faculty, has returned from France and is now teaching in a high school at Brooklyn, N. Y. He entered the first officers' training camp after war was declared and was in the first class to graduate at Camp Pike. He was commissioned second lieutenant and was later promoted.

SUPT. FLOYD EXPLAINS TRACK MEET SITUATION

(By Supt. A. Floyd.)
In February the Committee on County Athletics met and fixed the date for the County Track Meet and designated the place to hold said meeting. They designated Roff, Oklahoma, on the 11th and 12th of April as the place and time for the meeting. This was announced and the rules and regulations were printed for the meet and that no change of date has been made by the committee or any one else since it was first announced.
As there were so many different meets to be held at Ada this spring, and as Roff invited them to bring the meet to their town, and promised to furnish lodging free to all who attended, the committee thought advisable to hold the literary events and track meet at Roff and the Basketball tournament of the boys and girls at Ada. This tournament was held the first of March at Ada and the second one will be held on the 11th and 12th of April at Roff. We feel that we will have one of the best meets that was ever held in the county and we also feel like, as the boys and girls of the rural districts and of the neighboring towns have been very loyal to these meetings which have been held annually at Ada for several years, that the Ada schools as well as all other schools, should give their hearty support to this meet at Roff.

They are now withdrawing from northern Lithuania after severe fighting and heavy losses. REPORTS OF REVOLUTION

GERMAN AUSTRIA REPORTED ON BRINK OF BOLSHEVIK REVOLUTION.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, April 7.—Advices reaching the state department today indirectly from Vienna said a communist revolution, similar to that in Hungary, appeared imminent in German Austria.

Many of the leading business men of the city will be associated with the above gentlemen and it will have ample backing to insure its solidity for the beginning.

Words Most in Use.
It is declared by a philologist that nine words do one-fourth of the verbal work, and 34 words one-half. The nine most useful words are: And, be, have, it, of, the, to, will, you. The 34 more that, with these nine, to half our literary work are: About, all, as, at, but, can, come, day, dear, for, get, go, hear, her, if, in, me, much, not, no, on, one, say, she, so, that, there, they, this, though, time, we, with, write, your.

Movie Statistics.
In one evening we now see 16 announcements of forthcoming attractions, 48 close-ups of the leading lady, 2 close-ups of the leading man, 12 close-ups of a wonder child, 620 people get into automobiles, 620 people get out of automobiles, six eternal triangles, 1 undressed wives, nine unappreciated husbands, eight poor girls married to lords, three murders, one hanging, 62 pies.—Film Fun.

About Bathing.
Frequent bathing is conducive to good health as well as comfort. It keeps the pores of the skin clear, so that they can perform their proper function of clearing the system, through the skin, of excretions which are not discharged through the mouth, nose, kidneys or alimentary canal. Rinse with cold water. A brisk rub after the bath promotes circulation of blood.

BUSY TIMES FOR POLICE AND MAYOR
As a result of police activity the city treasury was several dollars to the good today when seven defendants, five of whom were negroes, were arraigned before Mayor Kitchens. The fines totaled $105.25 and the offenses ranged from choctaw beer, fighting and consorting to speeding, and the fines ranged from $34.75 for the choc to $8.75 for speeding.

ADA TOWN

If, as reported, Trotsky has ordered the bolshevik navy to steam out and attack the allied fleets, one menace will be quickly removed. However, it is too bad that Trotsky will not be aboard when things happen.

Where many fellows, especially young ones, have made the mistake of their lives by quitting a job with the idea that no one else could handle it and that the employer would be speedily brought to his knees. However, no man on earth holds a position that someone else could not fill as well or better than himself.

About the most foolish suggestion we have heard is that said to be seriously under consideration at Paris of recognizing the Bolsheviks in Russia and treating with them as a de facto government. Bolshevism is the sworn foe of all existing governments and its only reason for existence is to level and destroy all recognized, existing authority. Coddling Bolshevism is like taking an adder to your breast. The government that does it is bound to get stung. Oklahoma Democrat.

ONE BY ONE OUR IDOLS FALL

From the Ardmore.
One Thomas O'Shaughnessy of Chicago, described as a "diploma specialist," comes forth with the startling announcement that this year's crop of college graduates must accept plain-paper diplomas or none, the supply of so-called sheepskins, otherwise parchments, being exhausted. The really startling feature of that announcement lies in the statement that the parchment we have been accepting with our A.B., B.S. or P.D.Q. degrees are not sheepskins—they are the bleached hides of donkeys. Alas! and have we multitudinous wearers of appended initials been all these unsuspecting years under the humiliating blight of donkey-hide domination? Is it possible that those coveted documents handed to us on commencement day, rolled and tied with baby blue ribbon, once covered the grotesque architecture of the braying breed. Let us not pause for reply, lest that be too painful for human endurance.

Of course it must be admitted, when you pin one down to it, that a great many of the fellows who have received college diplomas are not

CHAPTER IV.

An Extraordinary Chambermaid, a Midnight Tragedy, and a Man Who Said "Thank You."

Miss Thackeray was "turning down" his bed when he entered his room after bidding his new art friends good night. He was staggered and somewhat abashed by the appearance of Miss Thackeray. She was by no means dressed as a chambermaid should be, nor was she as dumb. On the contrary, she confronted him in the choicest raiment that her wardrobe contained, and she was bright and cheery and exceedingly competent. It was her costume that shocked him. Not only was she attired in a low-necked, rose-colored evening gown, liberally bespangled with tinsel, but she wore a vast, top-heavy picture hat whose crown of black was almost wholly obscured by a gorgeous white feather that once must have adorned the king of all ostriches. She was not at all his idea of a chambermaid. He started to back out of the door with an apology for having blundered into the wrong room by mistake.

"Come right in," she said cheerily. "I'll soon be through. I suppose I should have done all this an hour ago, but I just had to write a few letters. I am Miss Thackeray. This is Mr. Barnes, I believe."

He bowed, still quite overcome, observing his confusion. "This is my regular uniform. I'm starting a new style for chambermaids. Did it paralyze you to find me here?"

"I couldn't believe my eyes," she abandoned her easy, careless manner. A look of mortification came into her eyes as she straightened up and faced him. Her voice was a trifle husky when she spoke again, after a moment's pause.

"You see, Mr. Barnes, these are the only duds I have with me. It wasn't necessary to put on this hat, of course, but I did it simply to make the character complete. I might just as well make beds and clean washstands in a picture hat as in a low-necked gown, so here I am."

"You See, Mr. Barnes, These Are the Only Duds I Have With Me."

She was a tall, pleasant-faced girl of twenty-three or four, not unlike her father in many respects.

"I am very sorry," he said lamely. "I have heard something of your misfortunes from your father and the others. It's—it's really hard luck."

"I call it rather good luck to have got away with the only dress in the lot that cost more than tuppence," she said, smiling again. "Lord knows what would have happened to me if they had dropped down on us at the end of the first act. I was the beggar's daughter, you see—absolutely in rags. Glad to have met you. I think you'll find everything nearly all right. Good night, sir."

She closed the door behind her, leaving him standing in the middle of the room, perplexed but amused.

"By George," he said to himself, still staring at the closed door, "they're wonders, all of them. I wish I could do something to help them out of—"

He sat down abruptly on the edge of the bed and pulled his wallet from his pocket. He set about counting the bills, a calculating frown in his eyes. Then he stared at the ceiling, summing up. "I'll do it," he said, after a moment of mental figuring. He told off a half dozen bills and slipped them into his pocket. The wallet sought its usual resting place for the night: Under a pillow.

He was healthy and he was tired. Two minutes after his head touched the pillow he was sound asleep.

He was aroused shortly after midnight by shouts, apparently just outside his window. A man was calling in a loud voice from the road below; an instant later he heard a tremendous pounding on the tavern door.

Springing out of bed, he rushed to the window. There were horses in front of the house—several of them—and men on foot moving like shadows among them.

Turning from the window, he unlocked and opened the door into the hall. Some one was clattering down the narrow staircase. The bolts on the front door shot back with resounding force, and there came the hoarse jumble of excited voices as men crowded through the entrance. Putnam Jones' voice rose above the clamor.

"Keep quiet! Do you want to wake everybody on the place?" he was saying angrily. "What's up? This is a fine time of night to be—Good Lord! What's the matter with him?"

"Telephone for a doctor. Put—damn! quick! This one's still alive. The other one is dead as a door nail up at Jim Conley's house. Git ole Doc James down from Saint Liz. Bring him in here, boys. Where's your light? Easy now! Easy—"

Barnes waited to hear no more. His blood seemed to be running ice cold as he retreated into the room and began scrambling for his clothes. The thing he feared had come to pass. Disaster had overtaken her in that wild, senseless dash up the mountain road. He was cursing half aloud as he dressed, cursing the fool who drove that machine and who now was perhaps dying down there in the taproom. "The other one is dead as a door nail," kept running through his head—"the other one."

A dozen men were in the taproom, gathered around two tables that had been drawn together. The men about the table, on which was stretched the figure of the wounded man, were undoubtedly natives: Farmers, woodsmen or employees of the tavern. At a word from Putnam Jones they opened up and allowed Barnes to advance to the side of the man.

"See if you can understand him, Mr. Barnes," said the landlord. Perspiration was dripping from his long, raw-boned face. "And you, Bacon—you and Dillingford hustle upstairs and get a mattress off'n one of the beds. Stand at the door there, Pike, and don't let any woman in here. Go away, Miss Thackeray! This is no place for you."

Miss Thackeray pushed her way past the man who tried to stop her and joined Barnes.

"It is the place for me," she said sharply. "Haven't you men got sense enough to put something under his head? Where is he hurt? Get that cushion, you. Stick it under here when I lift his head. Oh, you poor thing! We'll be as quick as possible. There!"

The man's eyes were closed, but at the sound of a woman's voice he opened them. The hand with which he clutched at his breast slid off and seemed to be groping for hers. His breathing was terrible. There was blood at the corners of his mouth, and more oozed forth when his lips parted in an effort to speak.

With a courage that surprised even herself, the girl took his hand in hers. It was wet and warm. She did not dare look at it.

"Merci, madame," struggled from the man's lips, and he smiled.

Barnes leaned over and spoke to him in French. The dark, pain-stricken eyes closed, and an almost imperceptible shake of the head signified that he did not understand. Evidently he had acquired only a few of the simple French expressions. Barnes had a slight knowledge of Spanish and Italian, and tried again with no better results. German was his last resort, and he knew he would fail once more, for the man obviously was not Teutonic.

The bloody lips parted, however, and the eyes opened with a piteous, appealing expression in their depths. It was apparent that there was something he wanted to say, something he had to say before he died. He gasped a dozen words or more in a tongue utterly unknown to Barnes, who bent closer to catch the feeble effort. It was he who now shook his head; with a groan the sufferer closed his eyes in despair. He choked and coughed violently an instant later.

"Get some water and a towel," cried Miss Thackeray, tremulously. She was very white, but still clung to the man's hand. "Be quick! Behind the bar."

Barnes unbuttoned the coat and revealed the blood-soaked white shirt.

"Better leave this to me," he said in her ear. "There's nothing you can do. He's done for. Please go away."

"Oh, I shan't faint—at least, not yet. Poor fellow! I've seen him up stairs and wondered who he was. Is he really going to die?"

"Looks bad," said Barnes, gently opening the shirt front. Several of the craning men turned away suddenly.

"Who is he, Mr. Jones?"

"He is registered as Andrew Paul, from New York. That's all I know. The other man put his name down as Albert Rott. He seemed to be the boss and this man a sort of servant, far as I could make out. They never talked much and seldom came downstairs. They had their meals in their room."

"There is nothing we can do," said Barnes, "except try to staunch the flow of blood. He is bleeding inwardly, I'm afraid. It's a clean wound, Mr. Jones. Like a rifle shot, I should say."

"That's just what it is," said one of the men, a tall woodsman. "The feller who did it was a dead shot, you c'n bet on that. He got t' other man square through the heart."

"Lordy, but this will raise a rumpus," groaned the landlord. "We'll have detectives an'—"

"I guess they got what was comin' to 'em," said another of the men.

"What's that? Why, they was ridin' peaceful as could be to Spanish Falls. What do you mean by sayin' that, Jim Conley? But wait a minute! How does it happen that they were up near your dad's house? That certainly ain't on the road to Span—"

"Spanish Falls nothin'! They wasn't goin' to Spanish Falls any more'n I am at this minute. They tied their horses up the road just above our house," said young Conley, lowering his voice out of consideration for the feelings of the helpless man. "It was about 'leven o'clock, I reckon. I was comin' home from singin' school up at Number Ten, an' I passed the horses hitched to the fence. Naturally I stopped, curious like. There wasn't no one around, fer as I could see, so I thought I'd take a look to see whose horses they were. I thought it was durned funny, them horses bein' there at that time of night an' no one around. Looked

A GOOD WAY TO SAVE

"In times like these when economy is so essential, I know of no better way to save than to have the entire family shod with Neolin Soles."

Writes B. F. Williams, Rochester, N. Y.

In his letter Mr. Williams tells of a pair of Neolin-soled shoes which he has worn constantly for four months. "The soles still look like new," he says. "You, too, will think there is no better way to save, when once you have tried shoes with these long-wearing, comfortable, and waterproof soles. They come in many styles for every member of the family. And good repair shops carry Neolin Soles for re-soles. They are made scientifically by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot 'feels'—guaranteed to outwear all other heels."

mighty queer to me. Course, thinks I, they might belong to somebody visitin' in there at Green Fancy, so I thought I'd—"

"Green Fancy," said Barnes, starting. "Was it up that far?" demanded Jones.

"They was hitched jest about a hundred yards below Mr. Curtis' property on the off side of the road. I hadn't any more'n got to our front gate when I heard some one running in the road up there behind me. 'Fore I knowed what was happenin', bang went a gun I almost jumped out'n my boots. The rummin' had stopped. The horses was rarin' an' tearin' so I thought I'd—"

"Where'd the shot come from?" demanded Jones.

"Up the road some'eres, I couldn't swear just where. Must'a been up by the road that cuts in to Green Fancy. So I thought I'd hustle in an' see if pa was awake, an' git my gun. Jest then pa stuck his head out in the window an' yelled what the hell's the matter. You better live I sung out when I was mighty quick, 'cause pa's party squintin' me fer burglars sneaking around the house. While we wuz talkin' there one of the hosses started our way lickety-split, an' in about two seconds it went by us. It was purty dark, but we see plain as day that there was a man in the saddle, bendin' low over the hoss' neck and shoutin' to it. We waited a couple o' minutes, wonderin' what to do, an' listenin' to the hoss gittin' fuder and fuder away in the direction of the cross-roads. Then 'way down there by the pike we heard another shot. Right there an' then pa said he'd put on his clothes an' we'd set out to see what it was all about."

"Well, pa come out with my gun an' his'n an' we walks up to where I seen the hosses. Shore 'nough, one of 'em was still hitched to the fence, an' 'other was gone. We stood around a minute or two examin' the hoss an' then pa says let's go up the road a ways an' see if we c'n see anythin'. An' by gosh, we hadn't gone more'n fifty feet afore we come plumb on a man layin' in the middle of the road. Pa shook him an' he didn't let out a sound. He was warm, but dead as a tombstone. I wuz fer leavin' him there till we c'd git the corner, but pa says no. We'd carry him there on our porch an' lay him there, so's he'd be out o' danger. I jumps on Polly an' lights out fer here, Mr. Jones, to telephone up to Saint Liz fer the sheriff an' the corner, not givin' a dang what I run into on the way. Polly said somethin' terrible jest afore we got to the pike an' I come durned near bein' throwed an' right there 'side the road was this feller, all in a heap. Thinks I, you poor cuss, you must a' tried to stop that feller on hossback an' he plunked you. That accounted fer the second shot. The thing that worries all of us is did the same man do the shootin', or was there two of 'em, one waitin' down the cross-roads?"

"Must have been two," said Jones, thoughtfully. "The same man couldn't have got there afore that, an' that's sure. Did anybody go up to Green Fancy to make inquiries?"

"Twasn't necessary, Mr. Curtis heard the shootin' an' jest before we left he sent a man out to see what it was all about. The ole skeezicks that's been drivin' his car lately come down half-dressed. He said nothin' out of the way had happened up at Green Fancy."

"It's most mysterious," said Barnes, glancing round the circle of awed faces. "There must have been some one lying in wait for these men, and with a very definite purpose in mind."

"Strikes me," said Jones, "that these two men were up to some kind of dirty work themselves, else why did they say they were goin' to Spanish Falls? They were queer actin' men, I'll have to say that."

His eyes met Barnes' and there was a queer light in them.

"You don't happen to know anything about this, do you, Mr. Barnes?" he demanded, suddenly.

Verdure on China's Great Wall.

Trees and shrubbery planted in the soil that has been accumulating for hundreds of years on the great wall of China are in thriving condition, some of them having grown to a height of 12 to 18 feet. This method of beautifying the great wall was an outgrowth of the movement for the restoration of the country started some time ago with government sanction under the direction of foreign experts. The driveway on the great wall considered very much improved with the addition of trees.

IN ANOTHER KEY

Wrong Direction.
"You are an hour late this morning Sam," said an employer to his negro servant.
"Yes, sah. I know it, sah. I was kicked by a mule on my way, sah."
"That ought not to have detained you an hour, Sam."
"Well, you see, boss, it wouldn't have if he'd only have kicked me in this direction, but he kicked me the other way."

The Right Sort.
Two Aucklanders were talking about a mutual friend. Said one: "So Jim has gone into the navy and is now on a destroyer. I thought he was a pacifist."
"He is; a naval pacifist."
"And what is a naval pacifist?"
"One who plants depth bombs for the purpose of spreading oil on the troubled waters."

Accounts.
"How do you account for the continued high cost of living?"
"Haven't tried to account for it," replied the anxious-looking man. "I have been too busy keeping books on all kinds of things to take up any additional question of accounts."

A Doubtful Honor.
"I hear your daughter is engaged to be married."
"Yes."
"Permit me to congratulate you."
"I don't know whether or not I should be congratulated. The chap she's picked out to marry is a poet."

A Simple Suggestion.
"Is there any truth to the story that you requested your brother-in-law to leave your house?"
"None whatever," replied the giant Missourian. "I kicked him out, and told him I'd break his neck if he ever came back."—Exchange.

THE REASON.

to human salvation. One acknowledged fact in religion is free human agency. God requires of men only what they are able to accomplish. When a man hears Christ knock and opens the door, that indicates a man's desire to comply with the divine will. Christ is anxious to become the guest in every willing heart. All who seek to have their lives transformed by his indwelling presence are assured that he is not far away. Christ will dwell with those who receive him. In him they will find eternal joy.

Bella—Why did she accept Tom Gibson from among all the men who have paid her attention?
Della—I guess he's the only one who proposed.

Close Relations.
The fellow who plays poker should take this fact to heart. His "ante" and his "ante" will not be far apart.

Scorn.
"What were you doing in the library?" asked Mrs. Cumrox.
"Reading the old poets," replied her husband.
"What's the matter? Aren't we able to afford the brand-new ones?"

Startling Thought.
"What did the old man say when you told him you wanted to marry his daughter?"
"Asked if I could support him in the same style his daughter had accustomed him to."

The Way of It.
"They don't reckon prize fights as they do money."
"How do you mean?"
"In money, it takes ten mills to make one cent, but in the ring it takes hundreds of pounds to make one mill."

A New Interpretation.
Little Algy—I say, father, what does the last straw mean?
Father—It means the fellow who was foolish enough to wear it probably wishes he hadn't.—Indianapolis Star.

Synonymous Terms.
"The word 'highbrow' used to mean someone excessively intellectual, but now it apparently means someone who is disagreeable."
"Well, what's the difference?"—London Answers.

Meeting the Snub.
Miss Flirt—Indeed, you must pardon me. I know your face, but I can't place you.
Mr. Sorehead—You mean, you know the place but you can't face me.

A Day's Outing.
An enjoyable all-day outing was spent Saturday in the woods near the lake by the Junior B. Y. P. U. class of Mrs. R. E. L. Ford of the First Baptist church. The principal features of the day were a big dinner and "lots of walking." Chaparrones for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. L. Ford, Rev. and Mrs. C. C. Morris, Mrs. M. M. Webster and Mrs. Riddling.

Addressing the Multitude.
"Every cloud has its silver lining," remarked the chronic quoter.
"Sure, thing," answered the chap with the cloven hoof (beg pardon—breath). "I once knew a man who developed into a great public speaker by his wife's relatives visiting him frequently."

Breaking the News.
"Father, was writing done on tablets of stone in the old days?"
"Yes, my son," replied the dutiful parent.
"Gee!" mused the boy. "Then it must have taken a crowbar to break the news."

Two of a Kind.
Miss Pritikid (patronizingly)—Oh, yes, Nora, I was once engaged for a week at the seashore.
Nora—Why, so wuz Ol, mum, in one of them souvenir shell places; and begorry, Ol quit before me wake was up."

A Stern Victor.
"When Frank proposed to Irene he offered her his name and three-quarters of his weekly salary."
"Did she accept him?"
"No. She insisted on nothing less than an unconditional surrender."—Life.

Before and After.
"The woman pays, you know," remarked the chronic quoter.
"Pays nothin'," snorted the sarcastic cuss. "It's the man who pays. Before marriage he pays her attention. Afterward he pays her bills."

BEFORE AND AFTER.

Wife—You used to think there was nobody just like me.
Hubby—Now I'm sure of it.

A Birthday Dinner.
L. A. Braly and family were the Sunday dinner guests of his father, J. A. Braly who lives south of the city. The occasion of the celebration was that of L. A. Braly's birthday. It is reported that the table fairly groaned with good eats. The cake bore no candles since there was not a sufficient supply in the city.

Morton—Do you think Miss Oldgirl is anxious to get married?
Maizie—Well, a man had better be pretty sure he loves her before he proposes to her.

WAY OF THE WORLD

First Boarder—I understand the Justweds are having trouble. Some people take her part and some others side with him.
Second Boarder—And I suppose there are a few eccentric people who mind their own business.

TRY IT ON THE DOG

New Playwright—What sort of a license will I have to take out for this new play of mine?
Critic—Have you tried it out yet?
Playwright—No.
Critic—You'd better take out a dog license.

UNSUITED ADVICE

Doctor—Walking would be good exercise for you.
Patient—But think of the auto-dodging you've got to do. Couldn't you recommend something less violent?

WHEN WIFEY IS WAITING

"Do you ever see the sun rise?"
"Yes; but I'm in too much of a hurry to get in to pay much attention to it."

After the Fire.
When fire has swept a bit of woodland the flowers that start the following season are often not the same as grow there before and frequently are strange to the locality. Queer legends have grown up to account for this fact, but the explanation is in reality very simple. Down under the surface soil these seeds have been waiting no one knows how long. They never had a chance before fire gave it.

Who Does The Buying For Your Family?

There is someone in your family who has a big responsibility.

Food to buy for the table; clothes for the children and grown-ups; new household utensils, linen, furniture, books and all the hundred and one little things for which the family income is spent.

The success of a family depends on wise buying. And it is that person's job to see that the money is well spent—that you all get full value for every cent that goes out.

The success of a family depends on wise buying just as the success of a business does.

Wise buying means intelligent buying. It is necessary to have knowledge of goods and stores.

The best way to get this knowledge is by reading advertisements. They tell you what is new and good. They tell you where and when to buy to advantage.

Not only the person who does the buying but every member of the family should read advertisements. It is the duty of all the others to help the one who does the buying by pointing out advertisements of new goods and giving all the information possible as to tastes and styles and values.

Advertisements are published for your benefit. Make use of them by reading them.

WORLD'S RECORD MADE AT OKLAHOMA CITY

AUTO RUNS 4,370 MILES IN WEEK ON HIGH; NO STOPS.

Okla. City, Okla., April 7.—World's records are being smashed right here in Oklahoma City. It's being done—not every day, but some days; and yesterday was one of them. On Overland stock car, the small Model 90, the car that you learned to know during war times as "The Thrift Car" went 4,370.1 miles in seven days and seven nights of continuous driving, finishing its run in the Lee-Huckins hotel lobby last night at 7 o'clock.

The record has several angles which will be worked out by officials from the log of the run. But the main thing established by a margin that is indisputable is the mileage, which is 129.1 miles better than any previous score made by any car, big or little, in high gear. The average daily run was 624.3 miles.

Works Till End.
The finish of the run was spectacular. With E. Linn Mathewson, former racer, at the wheel, and at his side Dick Carhart whose ingenuity and nerve are responsible for hanging up the new record, the little contender rolled through the main entrance of the Lee-Huckins hotel on the dot of 7 o'clock last night. It came to a stop in front of the clerk's desk.

For all who knew of the daily performance of the "game little boat" the moment was tense—the moment of shutting off the motor which had not stopped for 168 long hours.

There was only one day, Monday to Tuesday, when the car fell below the world's A. A. 24-hour non-stop record of 587 miles, established March 25, 1917 in Chicago. The previous record was won by a car other than Overland, made last March near Los Angeles, where road conditions are superior to those encountered around here. Traffic, crossings and rains made the tour of Carhart's Overland Model 90 hazardous and difficult.

26 Miles an Hour.
The average rate per hour, including stops, during the entire 7 day period was 26 miles. Stops averaged five minutes for filling, turning down grease cups and to change drivers every four hours, or nearly three and half hours at controls alone. This does not include road stops for tire trouble.

Throughout the seven days there was no car trouble and no adjustments were necessary. The engine scored 100 percent, never having missed an explosion in 168 hours.

The driving team was composed of E. Linn Mathewson, captain; Virgil Hinshaw, Cecil Smith and Bob Freed. Mathewson and Smith drove the fastest, averaging each between 26 and 27 miles an hour during the thousand miles each piloted the contender. Hinshaw drove longest and made the most mileage; both Hinshaw and Freed averaging 25.5 miles an hour for their total hourage.

Gas Helps.
Sterling gasoline was used and carried the car 20 miles for every gallon used.

A banquet to the employees of the Carhart company, to officials of the run and to others who had taken active part in conduct of the run was given last night beginning at 8 o'clock in the Lee-Huckins hotel. The importance to the community, factory and to sponsors of the successful attempt to lower a world's record was featured in the talks of the evening.

Willard School Entertains.
On Friday afternoon, April 4th, the teachers and pupils of the Willard school entertained the Patrons Club with a Cantata entitled, "Strange Visitors" or "Allied Countries Visit to America." The European countries were represented in groups and couples dressed in National costumes giving the dance of each country, closing with a drill given by the Columbia girls. The program was a very pretty one and greatly enjoyed by everyone present.

The teachers of the various schools are to be commended in behalf of their efforts put forth in the line of these entertainments given for the Patrons Club, which not only arouse new interests for the pupils, but they are bringing the patrons of the school together and thereby giving the parent a better insight into the school life of the child.

Mr. Whipkey Here Sunday.
The local Methodist congregation greatly enjoyed the visit last Sunday, April 6th, from Mr. A. J. Whipkey of New York, but at this time connected with the Centenary Commission of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. Mr. Whipkey has been for some time connected as a field secretary with the National Committee on Armenian Relief. A Welcome.

The executive board of the Auxiliary to the Chamber of Commerce desires to welcome the 1,200 members secured in the drive last Tuesday and Wednesday enrolled with the secretary of this organization. We feel very proud of the co-operation of the women of Ada to make a better town. As your first work tomorrow and cast the solid vote of the Auxiliary in favor of the bond issue giving the children a better opportunity for securing an education. We suggest that every woman owning an auto, use it one hour tomorrow carrying the women of their ward to the poles, and let's record the heaviest vote ever cast here for a bond issue. Please see that your premises and alley there-to are perfectly cleaned early this week and encourage all in your block to do so. Any failure before the 11th of April, report to Mrs. R. E. Haynes.

MRS. TOM HOPE, Pres.
MRS. J. M. MCKINLEY, Sec'y.

36 ENROLL IN HOME NURSING COURSE

Thirty-six ladies of the city had enrolled in the home nursing course to be given by Miss Anderson under the auspices of the Red Cross at 3 o'clock this evening. In view of the importance of the course and the fact that it is free to all, this number is below expectations, although several others will probably enroll this evening.

As previously stated, the course embraces fifteen lessons all of which are intensely practical and can be applied to great advantages in the home. The lessons will be given at Red Cross headquarters from 9 to 11, 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Orders which it is learned have been issued for the United States transport George Washington to proceed from America to a French port are not taken to mean that President Wilson is contemplating a premature departure from France. They are thought rather to reflect the belief that the peace conference will be able to effect an adjustment of outstanding problems at a comparatively early date.

In Piccadilly.
Piccadilly is believed to have got its name from pickadilles or picadillies, a variety of turnover collar. A tailor named Higgins, who had made a fortune selling these articles of apparel, built a home in that particular part of London in 1630 and called it Piccadilly hall, hence the name Piccadilly.

PEACE TREATY IN SIGHT BY EASTER

PARIS, April 7.—The Council of Four reached an agreement Saturday of the principles of the indemnities and reparations to be paid by Germany and examination of the details will begin immediately, the newspapers said.

It is not believed there will be any disagreement as to details and it is indicated that the text of the financial terms will be finished during the week.

The Echo De Paris says that compromises were effected on all debatable points regarding the sum to be paid at once by Germany and the payments in the future.

Had Right Idea, Anyway.

My youngest daughter is quite a peachy little person and it is quite amusing at times to hear her air her views. The day after Christmas several children from the neighborhood came in to see her gifts and to play with her. When exhibiting her presents she said in her best peachy manner: "I gave away a lot of things and I loved my Christmas so much 'cause it's nice to be a giver than a taker."—Chicago Tribune.

Monarch's Compliment.

A pretty compliment was that Philip IV of Spain, himself a painter, tendered to a greater artist, Velasquez. When Velasquez had finished his famous picture "Las Meninas," which includes not only Philip and his queen, but the artist himself, brush in hand, he asked of the king, "Is anything wanting?" "One thing only," answered Philip; and taking the palette from Velasquez's hands, he painted on the breast of the artist's figure in the picture the Cross of the Order of Santiago, the most distinguished in Spain.

Her Heavenly Program.

Aunt Callie was a very religious negro woman—of the shouting variety. She was telling the children about heaven, and what she expected to do when she got there. "When I gets dar, honeys, I gwine take a crown what a angel gwine gimme, an' put it on my head. Den I gwine git out my lil' ole hahp an' play some of dem heben chunes on it. Den I gwine stretch my lil' white wings an' fly fum cherry beam to cherry beam."

Animal's strong instinct.

Some animals are remarkable, indeed, for the wonderful development of love and devotion they possess and show toward men. They are so acute in the sense of their affections that they seem to perceive the feelings of their master in advance of his expressions. Masters of dumb animals have often been heard to declare that their animals were quicker to detect in them a spirit of anger than were their fellow men.
